Focal Subcutaneous Hemangioma of Upper Limb in an Infant: A Case Report and Review of the Literature. A focal subcutaneous hemangioma is a benign lesion of infancy. It can be located in various sites and can be associated with systemic vascular disorders. We present the case of a 7-month-old female with a painful swelling of the left forearm. Radiologic imaging showed a subcutaneous tumor associated with malignant vascular neoplasm in the proximal arm. Surgical excision was performed. We propose that pathologists and radiologists should be aware of this distinctive tumor type, which can be confused with soft tissue sarcomas and other malignant vascular lesions. The prognosis is excellent, but knowledge of this rare entity could contribute to avoid unnecessary treatment.

So I was reading this article on how MySQL transaction isolation works and I came to the conclusion that MySQL transactions will affect use-conditions (if we have a sequence of statements starting with SELECT foo FROM bar, and at least one of those SELECTs have a WHERE condition with the same WHERE condition as another SELECT in the same transaction). I've tested that statement with MySQL's InnoDB storage engine and it works as expected - if the use-condition is the same, statements are isolated, if not, they're not. So I was wondering, if I want to use a1d647c40b
