Award-winning immersive-crafting studio that. is free to anyone with an A3 printer.Q: PHP Replace part of variable to string when ==true I want to replace part of a variable to a string when it is true. I have a database with a list of people (id, name, phone) that I can retrieve and echo out in a list. The user can click on a button and I want to change the person that he clicks on to his phone number. My problem is that I don't want to use the whole variable, but only what it's actually displaying. For example: $people = "var1,var2,var3,var4"; echo $people; How can I replace "var3" with my phone number to make it echo out something like "123456789"? Thank you for your help! A: Don't know why the comment to wrap around is there, but just make two for loops: $people = "var1,var2,var3,var4"; echo $people; while(strpos($people, "var3")!= false) { echo '123456789'; } Q: Is this a short story or novella about a reporter who disrupts a government experiment? I'm trying to identify a short story or novella I read in the early 1980s. The story begins as a reporter is in a town trying to interview a farmer whose farm is dying. He's housed in an old outhouse in the barn of the man's farm. (I think the farmer is a widow.) The story is told in the past tense and I think the reporter is actually inside the old barn just as the farmer is visiting his cows. He notices the farmer has a picture of a man who has arrived in a small wooden boat with a warning that "there be dragons here." The reporter says he remembers the story and learns the woman is having great difficulties with her farm and this reporter has a possibly tragic history of being fired from jobs when he tries
