Sims 4: My World -*This is the first of a series of posts on using the Microsoft Graph in Java applications. This post will use JHipster to build a simple application. The JHipster application will be used to persist data in a database, and will interact with the Microsoft Graph

API. To get started I'll show how to get a Spring Boot client application up and running, and then show how to use the Graph client to interact with users and the Microsoft Graph API. Setting up the application First, I start by downloading the code from
